Robin liked telling lies. All his friends were fooled and they wanted to punish him for it. So they asked George for help.

One afternoon, George went to see Robin with Robin's friends. He said, "I hear you are good at telling lies. But I found a drink. If you drink a bottle of it, you'll tell the truth."

Of course, Robin didn't believe it. He said proudly, "Well, the man who can fool me won't be born. I'm sure I'll win." Then George brought out a bottle and gave it to Robin. As soon as he drank a little, Robin stopped at once. He wanted to say something, but he remembered what he had just said, so he stood there quietly.

"Go on!" George said with a smile. "Is it tasty (美味的)?"

At last Robin couldn't help shouting. "It's not a drink, but oil!"

All his friends began to laugh and his face turned red.

56. Robin wasn't an honest man.

57. All Robin's friend wanted to punish him because he often laughed at them.

58. Robin's friends asked George for help.

59. Robin stopped drinking at once because the drink was tasty.

60. Robin was punished at last.

B

If someone says "give me five", do not search your pocket to get five yuan! It will make others laugh! The person is not asking for your money, but for your fingers.

In the US, "give me five" or "give me the high five" is a popular gesture. You can see it often in films or on TV. It means the slapping (拍) of raising right hands together.

People do it when they meet for the first time or something happy happens. For example, a student has good marks in exams or wins a lottery ticket (彩票). If a football team wins a game, the players will give high fives to everyone around to celebrate.

This gesture may come from the old Roman gesture of raising the right arm for the emperor. This showed that the person raising his arm did not have a sword (刀) in his hand.

Why not try to give the high five to your friends?

Sometimes kids do double
"high"
